Falling down, falling down into the deepest blue,
The world may be delicate, but it's still so f*cking cold.
Being so young, still not wanting to die old and alone.
Will you make it through the night without choking on Half-baked words and inane flattery?
Being so scared feels so f*cking perfect.

Falling down, falling down, so hold your breath,
And prepare for the worst, cut your losses.
In a perfect world this would all be so real
And you would be this charming man,
In a perfect world it wouldn't be so f*cking hard.

Breathe in, breathe out, keep your heart on your
sleeve,
Every day wanting to give up on the world,
Living your life waiting for someone else.
Breathe in, breathe out, keep your heart on your
sleeve,
The best part about falling in love is before you even know it.

You never want to look in another direction
This is all you want see,

That's teenage lust, mixed signals and heartache.
But that's just growing up.
(That's just growing up)

Breathe in, breathe out, keep your heart on your
sleeve,
Every day wanting to give up on the world,
Living your life waiting for someone else.
Breathe in, breathe out, keep your heart on your
sleeve,
Every day wanting to give up on the world,
Living your life waiting for someone else.
Breathe in, breathe out, keep your heart on your
sleeve,
The best part about falling in love is before you even know it.

Breathe in, breathe out, keep your heart on your
sleeve,
Every day wanting to give up on the world,
Living your life waiting for someone else.
