Blood and glass were all I could see
I never should have brought you into my family
Felt the same thirst that he felt but, I'm a bit more kind Leaving you was the only answer that I could find

Why did I go? (Don't know, don't know)
I still love you, you know (I know, I know)
I started dying when the future saw you fall
Imagine how it crushed me after I made that phone call

My instincts took control, no thoughts of right or wrong
Believe me when I tell you that I thought that you were gone
I tried to think of how I'd start again
But a world without you is not worth living in

Been so long since I've known pain
I felt it through your eyes that night among the trees and rain
Lying to you felt so strange
Of course I've always loved you and that will never change

Why did I go? (Don't know, don't know)
I still love you, you know (I know, I know)
I started dying when the future saw you fall
Imagine how it crushed me after I made that phone call

My instincts took control, no thoughts of right or wrong
gone
I tried to think of how I'd start again
But a world a without you is not worth living in

Why did I go? (Don't know, don't know)
I still love you, you know (I know, I know)
I started dying when the future saw you fall
Imagine how it crushed me after I made that phone call

My instincts took control, no thoughts of right or wrong
Believe me when I tell you that I thought that you were
