It's kind of felt like for a while now
I must have taken a wrong exit
Not quick to ask directions and I'm Driving around waiting for someone to answer
All the wrong questions, not open for suggestions

And I'm waiting for nothing
Yeah I'm waiting for nothing

And I feel there's nothing left
And I feel like someone else
And I feel there's nothing left inside
And I feel my soul is plain
And I feel my words disintegrate
And I feel I've nothing left to say

I was kind of hoping that the time I spent searching for You would be worth it but it feels like curses
And I didn't want to be where we were but I thought that after
Searching with all my heart and soul I could find you

But I was searching for nothing
Yeah I was searching for nothing

And I feel there's nothing left
And I feel like someone else
And I feel my soul is plain
And I feel my words disintegrate

You were following me everywhere
You were chasing me
You were right here all along

You were chasing for something
Yeah you were chasing me for something

And I feel there's nothing left
And I feel like someone else
And I feel there's nothing left to hide

And I feel my soul is safe
And you hear the words I need to say
