Never again, never again, never again

I dive into a river whose source I cannot see
I listen to a samba without remembering yesterday
I want to do everything no matter what the price
I'll tell everything to people I don't even know

I want a moment of peace
I don't need anything else at the end of the day
And less is more
When you want peace at the end of the day

Never again, never again, never again

Confuse my sweetness with stupidity
I take seriously what everybody says
Consider that a friend accepts and swallow everything
Pretend that I'm deaf and mute

I want a moment of peace
I don't need anything else at the end of the day
And less is more
When you want peace at the end of the day
