When they are finally dying
All other sentient beings are dying with them

A burning sense of the fragility of each being

But the realization will come too late
They are more afraid of life than death

But they will only reach a resolution in their minds

Making their dying thoughts of this resolution A new age will begin

They will all meet their destroyer, they won't meet their creator

It is time to feed upon the living Now its time to feed upon them

They may call this the end, but it is only the beginning
A deep clear understanding for all beings will emerge

A new age is beginning Exponential transcendence is near
And now the end is here
