And I had to close the shade because the moon torments me arising the morning and I cut her flesh easy there repugnant to me
she tried to kiss me she requested to forbid the screams

now I remember her eyes
I remember her flaccid body
Her lament being deeply involved in my Head
And I only wish o make it again, I stay in silence
I look my hands and I donknow
How could I get so far whit my hate
There was the knife that blinded her life

[CHORUS]

I lit the switch because the light Seemed to Be cold and scared me
But the fear stayed there I lit the switch but in my heart I know That my fucking weakness Is waiting for me behind the gate

The cold and the fear llooking them in slow camera Moving his arms whit weak power
I was defeated
I was feeling so guilty
Only that knife in my hand Introduced it inside my neck
And only felt the void Making my pain bleed
I die paying for my faults
