I want to know what its like to be on your side of this
How does it feel to be loved by someone else, regardless?

You don't deserve this, You haven't earned this
But this love keeps no record of wrong
If that's what you call this, is that what you call this?
Why can't I just move on?

I'm a fool for you, and I don't want to be I'm tired of building ladders through the night
I'm a fool for you, and I don't want to be
But part of me has to know what's inside

I can prove to you
You're worth so much more
And everything inside of you is worth fighting for

So I'll try and I'll try and I'll try and you won't care And I'll climb and I'll climb and I'll climb and you won't be there

When I finally reach the top, pray I have the courage to climb back down

I want to know what its like to be on your side of this
How does it feel to be loved by someone else,
regardless?
