If you're not a liar then convince me otherwise Look into these eyes and tell me that what you did tonight
Was not intentional

Cause I'm starving for your attention and I'm begging for your approval
I can only take so much of being number two

So I'll call you again and I'll hope that you pick up this time
I'm tired of standing here in line behind everything that matters to you

It's been awhile since we've spent time alone You've been trying so hard to impress the people you don't know

Cause you're starving for their attention and you're begging for their approval They might say they love you, but tomorrow they'll be gone
