[Killah Priest] As the night creeps upon our Earth Our planet stops twirling for a minute It's just there in the universe, for sixty-seconds Our cities are wrecked with Nephilims that fell from heaven Giants were weapons their alliance of God brethren's with bad adolescence The concrete become the floor for thrashing Calls of war contesting, the moon and stars as the eye of dead men Police questioning the dope fiends and old veterans Who search the cold streets for their medicine It's twenty-seconds to go, one hands out doe One pours out a gram of blow, put it up her nose The other scream out a code before the screech of tires of the 5-0 It's survival, ten seconds, all the snakes begin shedding Telling, money pedaling, fire and the hell winds Five-seconds, they all in the protection The one under the eye of the medics Four is war, three here comes the Ds Two is only a few, one is done, here comes the sun Wait, that's six more patrol lights When we talk you see the white frost of cold nights Bright sidewalks, wait, tie or hold the dice The Almighty!

[Killah Priest] Guns, they got mics, run, the satellites have cameras The red and blue bandannas, better use your hammer Its 2012, the new Panthers, Hosea 4: Verse: 6 My people are destroyed for a lack of knowledge It's blacks we wilding in Isaiah 42: Verse: 7 It gets worst brethren, there's no devil under the Earth lurking With a pitch fork, no he's on Earth in person Trying to lift off in a rocket ship before the comets hit The Apocalypse, Indians watch from cliffs Gangstas, goons, ghouls, and guru Voodoo, vicious cycle, cleansing their sins Angels or agents, Prophets or politicians The problem we live with, religion probably the mystic predicted Before the reptilian shape shifted Forced to break the bridges, once the quake hit us Hope God's with ya, better pray for The Almighty
