The children weep, the sun has gone
The crazy boys greet a computer dawn
In subway retreats the commuters yawn
Out on the streets the slaughter goes on

Out on the streets the taxi's drawl
Out for the sweet, the painted dolls
And you can be sure with their backs to the wall
Out on the street the innocent fall

Cause there's so little time. So much confusion
So many dreams. So many delusions

Out on the streets the sharks arrive
The gangsters compete with the government lies
Saddened and cheap the lonely get by
But out on the streets the rebels die

Cause there's so little time. So much confusion
So many dreams. So many illusions

Out on the street the painted dolls.
Out on the street the taxis drawl
Out on the street the innocent fall
Out on the street the painted dolls
Out on the street. Out on the street.
