You never told me
That you truly care
You never showed me
That love we could have shared

We argue, fuss and fight
About who's wrong, who's right
Then we made love all night
Trying to make things alright

You never told me
That you truly care
You never showed me
That love we could have shared

Oh, I wish we can learn to love each other
Without fussing and fight
I wish we can romance one another
And make this relationship right again
REPEAT THIRD VERSE
