when dawn breaks with scattered thoughts the sun will rise as tension climbs to feel this tension every day Iâ'd watch it rise a thousand times catching fire helps me become who I need to be fight for glory, thereâ's nothing left here to hold back now, I swear I will survive Iâ'm stronger now than Iâ've ever been I wonâ't back down, I swear I will survive the taste of blood and burning skin the pain reminds me Iâ'm alive I look to pain as guiding light this light a reason to survive time is uncertain, and in these troubled times it is clearly a mistake to turn your back
