you had the whole world in front of you though now you watch through clouded eyes these chemicals, they have changed your light and your disease has burnt the skies

Iâ€™ve seen your heart pour over but tonight we breathe being caught up in a chemical fire the flames replace the light since youâ€™ve been caught up in this chemical fire the flames burn bright this ends tonight

Iâ€™m sure your parents made things worse in looking back they held you down but blaming them wonâ€™t help you pick yourself up off the ground lift your head, I wonâ€™t let you down because tonight we breathe the ground it shakes, you tremble through seething eyes, the day is the night because Iâ€™ve seen your heart pour over beyond the clouds you will find your light
