all that tyrants need to gather strength is for people of good conscious to hold their voice so I refuse to stand down I am not just a voice among the crowd

I stand on solid ground no other man must hold me up I refuse to let you hold me down you can't hold me down

I will never need the public voice to help me decide who I'm supposed to be resist those who want to control you resist selling out to empty promises don't be just a voice among the crowd
