A promise since before the world began
And this will be Your
New kingdom of perfection
The inheritance of eternal life

From His fingers
A new heaven and earth
The old is lost and forgotten
No more will the walls echo with weeping
Will death have strength over life
Rest comes for those who dwell on the mountain
For theirs is the protected place

The old order will be dismantled

A promise since before the world began

And this will be Your
New kingdom of perfection
The inheritance of eternal life

Never again will a child live only a few days
Decendants will live with their elders
And he who sees a hundred years
Will be youthful

The old order will be dismantled
Abolishment of human nature
Free from death, suffering, and sin

God help the souls of those who
Exclude you because of His name
And will sit outside the gates
