hey again

i hope you know you ruined my life the bitterest words are never quite sincere but i gotta tell you one thing its all the same to me its in my blood and you don't feel the flow i sat there absorbing the ever present real world wondering why people have to change all the time and about those who shift with the trends well we both know i know better than to point the blame at somebody else

but myself

so i'll put these words on the shelf with pictures of old friends i can sit and ask myself what i'm doing wrong but i'm right this time these are my convictions, you're tearing down i won't give up even though its all anyone in this world thinks we're good for now

he's not with us anymore

i sat there feeling frustrated the autumn sky was rapidly turning to dusk and i'm feeling so fucking alone in this world you won't believe me when i tell you but everything that i respect is absent in you so go shut me out and shut up as this scene rages on i can't decide what to do with people like you i can't take it on the chin cause these are my convictions that you're tearing down
world thinks we're good for now
i'm not changing for the world there's a time to let it go when it comes i'll let you know, yeah i'll take this mental anguish fist thrown at my head because i'm right this time, yeah (this time) yeah i'm right this time, oh yeah (this time) i'm so right this time these are my convictions that you're tearing down
world thinks we're good for now she's not with us anymore
i'm not changing for your world oh yeah, as we go (go, go, go ,go) fists first into the world your concrete morals mold life's prison cells and with fashion as warden you are prisoners in hell in your world rot in hell in your world
