"Own It"

you walk on the carpet of your life the cameras flashing, it blinds your eyes but you smile anyway like it doesn't bother you you know that everyone there wants to be like you and you want to tell them the truth but you just walk by as they scream "i love you" you're all messed up, fame's getting to your head you don't care bout what your parents have said and then you fall into pieces, crumble to the ground with no idea how to find your way out pick up the pieces and put them back together cause what you've done in the past, no it doesn't matter gotta get your act together and climb back up that ladder

cause you ain't gonna live forever so appreciate the moment
just own it

the media's on you again this time the paparazzi is everywhere, you can't hide but you brush past anyway, trying to act cool you don't have the time to think anything through freedom is gone as your bodyguards follow you but you know that there's nothing you can do

gotta get your act together and climb back up that
cause you ain't gonna live forever so appreciate the

gotta get your act together and climb back up that
just own it
