Last night I wandered through my mind to the place our love once lived
And when I got to your sweet love my eyes begin to fill
Then I tried to remember our love turned out so sad
But all I could remember was the good times that we had.

What happened to our love the one we were proud of
I can't recall one single drop of rain
What happened to our love the one we were proud of I'd give the world if we could start over again.

--- Instrumental ---

I hear you're so happy now with new love that you've found
Me I'm making out all right I do some traveling round Well I found a lot of new friends but there's one thing I can't find
The answer to the question that's always in my mind.

What happened to our love the one we were proud of
I can't recall one single drop of rain
What happened to our love the one we were proud of I'd give the world if we could start over again.

I'd give the world if we could start over again...
