(hook)

This is the story of truth, anybody out in the world can make it, and thats including you Do what you need to do, and do it right, make sure you got plans, make sure they set tight. Its destined to be, trust me, follow my footsteps and then you will see what is really comforting (verse 1)

Its life, it may be hard, but you got to play it, dont fake it, go for more than just a simple base hit// jottin down recording songs in a basement, he lived never to show any hesitation//

When it comes to being the greatest of makeest, no mistakin, tells himself that he will get his break soon// Now he never did regret the threat to the people that said and swore he would never make it// Take it my son, dont break it my son, and i promise my son, you will be number one, i dont lie, just neal on your knees, and look up to the sky, and say, im going to try!// He will answer i swear, thats why im right here, this is you in the future, im here, im where you want to be and its near// The answer is clear, just come with no fear, get on the stage and listen to them cheer!// (hook)

Its destined to be, trust me, follow my footsteps and then you will see what is really comforting (verse2) Its getting close you know, hes going to make it, were all going to make it, listen to the vibe, kick out all the lies, i tell the truth within every line, from time after time, from rhymer after rhyme// So many talented kids out there its just sad, hurry up and get them signed before they have all gone bad// The streets is what they have, that and a duffel bag, get them out of these rags, and give them what they ask!// It makes me want to scream and cry, why? why is music starting to die? a whole culture thrown to the side// Do they understand what the world would be like? not right, a world without rhythm, but only its a nightmare within him, coming true, man damn, we need to stop this right away and we can, only we can change the music, now lets do, if someone says dont worry, man refuse it! (hook)
