The "Triplets" are Nanette Fabray, Jack Buchanan and Fred Astaire.

Three little unexpected children
Simultaneously, the doctor brought us And you can see that we'll be

Three forever and a-e-i-o-
You wouldn't know how agonizing
Being triple can be

Each one is individually the victim
Of the clinical day e-i-o-

Every summer we go away to Boden, Boden, Boden
Every winter we come back home to Walla, Walla, Walla
We do everything alike

We look alike

We dress alike, we walk alike

We talk alike And what is more

We hate each other very much

We hate our folks

We're sick of jokes on what an art it is To tell us apart!

Fred : If one of us gets the measles

Jack : Another one gets the measles

All : Then all of us gets the measles And mumps and
'flu.

How I wish I had a gun

A widdle gun

It would be fun to shoot the other two

And be only one.
