Craving what you think will fill this empty life
Convinced that this world owes you fame at any price

And you play your games
Justify the pain
You'll always be the victim here

How much do you want this
How much do you need this

Only seeking virtue for all you sacrifice
Bleeding on the rest of us to make yourself feel right

What breeds in your veins
Is what kills what you create
Only truth and love will set you free

How much do you want this
How much do you need this
