You're famous when you put down everything Killing with your weakness not your strengh So you think you are a cutting superstar now

You're glamorous when everything you dream Never really has a meaning And still prefer the shadows from the sun Don't know what's real

So you think you are a cutting superstar now And still you think you are a cutting superstar now

Your fascination with the cosmic queens Keeps you seeking out the truth where there is no gain Mistaken love and vanity as the same Don't know what's real

So you think you are a cutting superstar now And still you think you are a cutting superstar now So you think you are a cutting superstar Who do you think you are
