How does it feel to be alone tonight?
How does it feel without me by your side?
How does it feel without me in your life?

Baby I believed in you when no one else did
And baby I put faith in you when my heart hid Think of what we could have been, and what we could've done
You had me so convinced that you were the one

You burnt it all down to ashes and embers
You caused this fall, I hope that you remember

I'm fine without you now, I don't need you here
I'm fine without you now, can you disappear?

Memories on replay in my head
I think of all the nights we had, and what you've said
But now all the nights are gone and your words are worthless
My life is at its dawn, tell me dear was it worth this?

You burnt it all down to ashes and embers
You caused this fall, I hope that you remember

I'm fine without you now, I don't need you here
I'm fine without you now, can you disappear?
