Centuries, the nameless roam to over take this world,
and all the pain inside her face becomes a place to hide.

For her life aside, and the tides of the sign.
For the scent of your skin is enticing, beyond the edge of ivy and trees in the forest I found endless seas.

At the end of time, through the endless skies, I've dreamt of you.
In this horizon the world; it collapses then to unfurl
chaos, it flows a violent red.
For the sirens keep, they sing the smells of her skin,
the moisture of her lips, the seductions of broken glass
and in the end we can survive.

I know I cannot break, I've seen the world; it collapses
all around her
I know I cannot break.

Rise from the oceans of blood, my beloved, I invoke thee, I invoke thee, I invoke thee.
Rise from this furnace of wrath, my cherished, I invoke thee, I invoke thee

Now my Goddess... invoke me.

Fall, from the darkest of clouds my enamoured soul
blood of my blood, pain of my pain, breath life back into me.

Breath life back into me.
Breath life back into me.
