

40 Below Summer "Faces"

Visit "Faces" on MotoLyrics.com

Show us what
You can do present what you want
Crawling on your side
Change of course will rip you apart
Fucking your nation
Something you live they're making you with
But can you stay alive
Chewed every fucking inch of my face
And it remains calm
Suck in your tongue as it peels you away
Changing my face
Smiling at jokes and making odd faces
Stupid old fool
Look at yourself being something your not
You wanna work
Rev up the coaster see what you got

So figure out how you're so alone now
Come back and still frame your soul
You're so deluded

Fight for
After my foot has created a footprint
Cough up the powers
Render it as a weakling of life
Better familiar
Jump on my case just mind your own business
Why so familiar
Minding of something that's not your own business
Nothing without us
40's the one that's doing the business
Something about us
Write about something you'll never forget

So figure out how you're so alone now
Come back and still frame your soul
You're so deluded

So I feel deception, behind your disguise
And I see the true face in the reflection while your

Changing faces

Changing faces
Changing faces
Changing faces

Changing faces
Changing faces
Changing faces
Changing faces
Changing faces
Changing faces
Changing faces

Changing, changing

Your face
Your face
Your face
Your face

Figure out how you're so alone now
So figure out how your so
You're so alone now

So figure out how your so
You're so alone now
Come back and still frame your soul
You're so deluded

So figure out how your so
You're so alone now
Come back and still frame your soul
You're so deluded

Why can't I see your (Face)?
Why can't I see your (Face)?
Why can't I see your (Face)?

Why can't I see your

Visit 40 Below Summer page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.