Lyrics:

Well, if ever you went away
I would just wither
crumble and fall
Feel it all around me feel it all around you Morning to evening and over and over

Yesterday, came to the end of myself and I'd like to say that I found somebody else
But it's the same old thing that it ever was

And what can I say
I don't even want to be here anymore Everything that's breakable is broken now and everything I came here for is gone Can I lean on you to keep from falling down

So tell me what to say
I need some words that mean something Something more than what I know right now Lift my head
Lift my heart
Lift the weight and take it all away
