It's getting colder and all the leaves have blown away
And I am older, but I am all tapped out of faith
Now it's over, and everything ends up the same
I'm seeking closure, but I fall flat down on my face
..it's the only way that I know, the only way

I'll never forget December
I'll never forget when my world stopped
I'm looking through all the wreckage
Ripping my heart out
I'll never forget December
I'll never forget when my world stopped
I'm picking up all the pieces
Everything falls apart

The days are shorter, the next few weeks are filled with rain
But I've made it warmer, since I can't help but fan
the flames
I think I've torn her, the thought has kept me up for days
I'm feeling cornered, another year that's left to waste
It's another year of my life that's left to waste.

Chorus
