How could I ask you
To stick around here
I should know the answer to that question
By now
I should know
Not to be so presumptuous
After all that I
That I've put you through

I've tried to be a good man
A man you can share your dreams with
And even when life turns around
And gets right in the way
You'll always know
That I love you
And that I'd understand
If you had to go

How could I
Believe I could carry on
Without you
How could I be so strong
How could I be so wrong

Through all the hard times
I've promised you the good times
A thousand destinations
That we followed to get here
A thousand time
I've said I've loved you
And that I'd understand if you had to go
