This bar has been my home away from her
Used to be she was missing me
Now she's moving in with her best friend
And I'm the only one who wants what used to be I'm here because today I lost it all
I didn't want to drink at home alone
I just can't believe, all my hopes and dreams are falling
Like a row of dominoes

I thought the man behind the bar
Had heard it all before
My story must have caught him by surprise
'Cause when he handed me my double
There were tears in his eyes
You know you're in trouble, when the bartender cries

He said, Last night, you swore you'd never drink again
I said, Next time, I'm really gonna try
So if she ever calls for me
Oh, you can finally tell her, He ain't here, and it won't be a lie

I asked the man behind the bar
What he he'd been crying for
He said, That bottle used to be a friend of mine
Now I stopped drinking doubles
But I pour them all the time
Son, you know you're in trouble when the bartender cries

As I saw my own reflection staring back at me, I knew Every single word he said was true
Well, I told the man behind the bar
I thought I'd seen it all before
Till I saw the sadness in his eyes That's when I put down my double, and said my last goodbye
'Cause you know you're in trouble when the bartender
cries
Oh, you know you're in trouble when the bartender
cries
