Iâ€™m tried of the city,
Of smoke stack and steel,
Iâ€™m tried of the grind,
Of the factory wheel,
Iâ€™m spreading my wings,
And Iâ€™m ready to fly,
To the land of the wide open sky,

Iâ€™m bound for Texas,
Bound for Texas,
Bound for Texas land.

To hear the moo and rattle,
Of snakes and cattle,

Iâ€™m bound for Texas land,
Iâ€™ll work on a ranch,
Where thereâ€™s plenty of sun,
With my horse and my saddle,
My rope and gun,
Iâ€™ll ride on the prairie,
My face to (the) sky,
And the rest of the world can go by,

Iâ€™m bound for Texas,
Bound for Texas,
Bound for Texas land.

To hear the moo and rattle,
Of snakes and cattle,

Iâ€™m bound for Texas land,
(top of next column)
Iâ€™ll save up my money,
And look for a wife,
A wife who be true,
And a pal for life,
Iâ€™ll build her a home,
And a room for a child,
With the roses, around growing wild,

Iâ€™m bound for Texas,

Bound for Texas,
Bound for Texas land.
To hear the moo and rattle,
Of snakes and cattle,
Iâ€™m bound for Texas land,
Iâ€™m bound for Texas,
Bound for Texas,
Bound for Texas land.
To hear the moo and rattle,
Of snakes and cattle,
Iâ€™m bound for Texas land,

Iâ€™ll sing her a song,
At the end of the day,
A song that will drive all our cares away,
Iâ€™ll sing out (in) the prairie,
The blue starry skies,
And the stars shining bright in her eyes,
Iâ€™m bound for Texas,
Bound for Texas,
Bound for Texas land.
To hear the moo and rattle,
Of snakes and cattle,

Iâ€™m bound for Texas land...
