She leaves with Jelly legs

Where did all my good luck get to

We\\re curled up like sleeping kittens on the floor

Stowed aboard your big green boat

She took aim with a turned back
Blew all in me with gold silence
Then a science project volcano erupts inside me
Filling me with flat champagne

Stretched out like a rubber band
From one planet to the next
You were dancing with your grandfather
That lonely night
I guess ill meet you in the afterlife

She leaves with jellylegs
Where did all my good luck get to
Like a lonely kitten, sinking, drowning in the harbor
I walked the plank, your big green boat

Stretched out like a rubber band
From one planet to the next
You were dancing with your grandfather
that lonely night
I guess I\\ll meet you in the afterlife

solo

Stretched out like a rubber band

From one planet to the next
You were dancing with your grandfather
that lonely night
I guess I\\ll meet you in the afterlife

I guess I\\ll meet you in the afterlife
(repeat)
