we had run a mile where others walked some fifty feet, and then i met someone like you. there's so fucking far to go there's so much more i want to know there's never fucking time enough some people think they've got it rough... and in her eyes well i surmised she'd flown for miles i took her time and then she said to me there's so fucking far to go there's so much more i want to know there's never fucking time enough don't ever think you've got it rough. there's so fucking far to go there's so much more i want to know there's never fucking time enough some people really have it rough.
we have run a mile while others walked.
