She said, "Boys, they can't be trusted
I get so disgusted"
She says it over and over
You stuttered and you hesitated
From there it all just escalated
It happened over and over

And she said
"Boys lie like the rug under my feet
White lies, every breath between his teeth
Fine line between love and alibis, boys lie"

He made me this one great promise
But call me the doubting Thomas
She thought it over and over
You'll be mine and you'll be fine
Oh, for the rest of time
He promised over and over

And she said
"Boys lie like the rug under my feet
White lies, every breath between his teeth
Fine line between love and alibis, boys lie"

And there's nothing that a woman does
Just keep her faith because
There's nothing that a man can say
Won't make you walk away

There's nothing that he can't undo
A little nudge and a broken smile
Just staring back at you

When it comes to being trusted
She said, "You're so busted
But now that it's over, it's over
I took a poll and you were graded
Boys are highly overrated
It happens over and over

And she said
"Boys lie like the rug under my feet

White lies, every breath between his teeth
Fine line between love and alibis, boys lie"

And she said
"Boys lie like the rug under my feet
White lies, every breath between his teeth
Fine line, oh, love and alibis, boys lie"

Boys lie, it can't be wrong
She wrote my favorite song
Boys lie, I know it's good
Came freakin' like a new wave could

You got a problem with us
You heard me
You got a problem with us
[Incomprehensible]
[Incomprehensible]

You got a problem with us
You got a problem with us
