How much pain is a heart made to hold
How long's the chain made from a handful of gold
How many times do you need to be told
How many tears will a bottle release
How many years do you serve 'til you're free
How long can you stare - until you finally see
Well you may never find the answer my friend
But you gotta take that chance once again
You just might get things right this time
'Cos baby your heart never lets you down
How many times can you answer the call
How long can you stand until you stumble and fall
Where do you go when you're backed to the wall
How do you live with the secrets you hide
How much can you give 'til you're empty inside
How can you tell the truth from the lies
Repeat chorus
