here's to all the crowded rooms where you woke up on the floor to all those dead end girls who left me wanting more so delicate and quiet, so fragile to the touch misled by desire and self absorbed in lust

we're all at blame
for your mistakes

i know (i know)
times can get difficult, when it's all for her
i won't (i won't)
break myself to make this work, to make this work here's to all those lonely nights where you never made it home to all those wasted times where you never felt alone so desperate and defiant, like so many before looking for tomorrow, never knowing what's in store

for your mistake

i know (i know)
i won't (i won't)
break myself to make this work, to make this work
i know (i know)
break myself to make this work, to make this work
