You're always nice to me when I am feeling nowhere
You're always listening when I am saying nothing
And when I feel alone, you know how to pick up the cost
And if I am sick and tired, you know how to twist up the wires

I can really count on you when I'm feeling blue
I can really count on you when I rest my head on your shoulder

When the wind is blowing cold, you've got the heat in your home
And if you ever leave me
I just don't have that thought, I just don't have that thought

I can really count on you when I'm feeling blue
I can really count on you when I rest my head on your shoulder

And when I'm feeling lost, you know how to pick up the cost
And if you ever leave me
I just don't have that thought, I just don't have that thought
I just don't have that thought, I just don't have that thought
