Captured by those who worship darkness
Set in prison, a dark dungeon
Rats crawling over the floor and the water drops eternally

When I look out of the barred window
I see clouds swirling through the air
A red-white moon looks over a blackened valley

Ravens take place on the throne

Then a bestial transformation
No more ravens on the throne
Only the horned dark lord who takes place
A tirant who makes the fire blazing across the lands
As he comes plagues and death will poison our souls
