Don't unpack your suitcase
I wouldn't guess you'd be staying long
And all the nighttime animals
Are telling me that I've lost your love

We could have called it forever
But I killed it right from the start
I went on keeping my secrets
Leaving both of us with broken hearts

I'm living up on the moon now
And baby, it's a lonely life
Taking notes from talking to your ghost
And still staying up all night

I could beat my brains out
I could beg you to try and see
There ain't enough lies in this universe
That could spin you back to me

You had to see the creature
And of course you couldn't understand
I swallow that darkness
Were you just too scared

Well, I could beat my brains out
I could beg you to try and see
There ain't enough lies in this universe
That could spin you back to me

You had to see the creature
And of course you couldn't understand
Couldn't swallow that darkness
You were just too scared

I could beat my brains out
I could beg you to try and see
There ain't enough lies in this universe
That could spin you back to me

I showed you the creature
And of course you couldn't take any more

I put you in the darkness
And I shut that door
