how did you find a way to break my heart you hit it like a shootin star and now it's burning that mark, I still remember every word I don't believe what you were saying I tired to sleep it all i hope you know I still remember all the words falling down everything is falling down I'm feeling like I'm losing ground guess it only kill me better falling down where am I gonna go from here do you really care I guess it doesn't really matter now cause I'm falling down

I thought everything would always be we used to fit perfectly pen and paper black lines circling around your heart you built a wall to protect it but you kept out all my love I hope that you know that it won't give you any fair

cause I'm falling down completely and you're nowhere why did you leave me badly out of breath now?
