"Wishing Well"

In the corner of a box marked "lost and found" I find myself again.,
Lining the bottom of a wishing well with other dreams
that might have been.
Flattened by the pressure of what's coming down, I'm relying on faith
Second hand.

Refrain:

Used to be an average man with bigger than average
plans
Somehow I got lost along the way now I'm here.
You could be the one to set me free.
Waited all my life to be someone somebody could see.
You could find me still in the corner of a box marked
"lost and found" at
The bottom of a wishing well.

Being burdened by the weight of a wrecking ball, I'm defining my own sense
Of worth
I want to bathe my soul in the light, as religion finds me immersed.
Destitution knows me by name, while the trick is to sit
where you stand

Refrain:

Used to be an average man with bigger than average
plans
Somehow I got lost along the way now I'm here.
You could be the one to set me free.
Waited all my life to be someone somebody could see.
You could find me still in the corner of a box marked
"lost and found" at
The bottom of a wishing well.

I'm caught shuddering by myself, each wish in the shape of a coin.
Legal tender for wishes thrown as the water reflects
the unknown.
Tide rips through the surface of time, but I can't think of when it began.

Refrain:

Used to be an average man with bigger than average plans

Somehow I got lost along the way now I'm here.

You could be the one to set me free.

Waited all my life to be someone somebody could see.

You could find me still in the corner of a box marked

“lost and found” at

The bottom of a wishing well.

You could be the one to set me free.

Waited all my life to be someone somebody could see.

Yeah You could be the one to set me free. Set me free

2x Waited all my life to be someone to be someone

2x Waited all my life to be someone somebody could see.

You could find me still in the corner of a box marked

“lost and found” at

The bottom of a wishing well.
