What was I to say?
I'm already alone,
And there's nothing here except a hole in the wall.
What was I to do?
And how should I know,
I was never good when times are changing?

One more chance.
I never would react like this.
One more time.
It'd be time enough to think about it.
And one last straw.
It'd be strong enough to make this work or throw away
everything.

It's time that I go.
I can sleep on the road.
It won't be soft but it will be on my own.
I'm sure that last time I couldn't have been wrong.
Besides I'm not good with saying sorry.

One more chance.
I never would react like this.
One more time.
It'd be time enough to think about it.
And one last straw.
It'd be strong enough to make this work or throw away
everything.
(Throw away everything.)

Just one time is all it takes.
One time is all it takes.
Timing shows I needed to prove that I was strong enough to be on my own.
(Just one time is all it takes.
One time is all it takes.)
So we're taking time with bad excuses.
(Just one time is all it takes.)
Got to show it to know that everything is alright.

One more chance.

I never would react like this.
One more time.
It'd be time enough to think about it.
And one last straw.
It'd be strong enough to make this work or throw away
everything.

One more chance.
I never would react like this.
One more time.
It'd be time enough to think about it.
And one last straw.
It'd be strong enough to make this work or throw away
everything.
