-So what you're saying is, he grew up his whole life,
being tortured practically.
And as soon as he gets a taste of what normal life is like,
Something huge happens, like an unexpected baby.
He gets scared, he thinks he can't do it, so he panics.
And still being a kid himself, he does what any kid
should do,
He asks his parents for help.
It seems pretty normal to me.

-Nah, you don't understand.
See, they didn't just leave him there for a weekend,
While they got the house straightened up for him.
They left him for weeks, for months, they left him for years.
