-Well the next few years were probably the slowest,
Most uncomfortable years of my life.
I mean, they tried to make it easy, but they gave up pretty quickly.
I'm not gonna lie, I didn't make it easy on them either.
I could just never forgive them, you know.
But I'm the kind of person who believes that everything happens for a reason.
And you know I'm kinda glad that I was so miserable,
Counting down the days until I was eighteen.
You know, so I could leave.
'Cause the way it worked for me, there was this one day,
Where I was in the right place at the right time.
And now I'm not the type of person to just go get what I want.
I usually wait for it to casually come to me.
Something hit me that day like a ton of bricks.
I know it sounds cheesy, but I fell in love!
And that's what kept me there for the next few years.
I would have ran away if it wasn't for her.

Well it was just the same as anyday.
I was, looking to run far from the school.
And I was at the door, ready to go,
When I heard some books hit the floor.
So then I stopped, jaw dropped.
I said, "This must be love."
'Cause when I pulled myself together,
You were already gone.
I screamed, "Wait a minute!"
Listened to the voice in my head.
It said, "Kid you better run 'cause she's getting away with it."

-So I chased after her running down the hallways.
When I caught up to her, I grabbed her arm,
And I actually just stood there, frozen, didn't know what to say.
But, I think she kinda felt the same thing so it worked out.

I felt like I finally had a reason to be happy, you know.
She would be the first person in my life who was completely honest with me.
I had a reason to trust.
When I was with her, it just felt like,
My problems with my parents didn't seem so big anymore.
Oh well, I just didn't care about them.
