it doesn't matter that i haven't paid the rent all that was meaningless i've seen please don't be angry, dear, don't blame the government hush now, there's only you and me red stars descend, those rockets climb into the sky i check my watch and see the time is quickly slipping by we always understood that everything would end like this

so hold me close give me a kiss

please don't you worry, baby, we won't feel a thing they say it's over in a flash a hydrogen solution to our suffering all our problems turn to dust and ash

so hold me in your arms and put your lips to mine there's nowhere we can run to and we're running out of time you're beautiful and nothing matters anymore at all the worlds so big and we're so small

i check my watch and see the time is quickly slipping by

so hold me in your arms and put your lips to mine there's no where we can run to and we're running out of time
the worlds so big and we're so small
