

Electric Daylight "New Day"

Visit "New Day" on MotoLyrics.com

All the friends I used to know are living outside
Happiness will come and go like the moon pulls the tide
Every crumbling building beam
Telling me what I can do with my dreams
Don't take a man to see
Been long enough for me

Everything we used to love has passed us by
Now the fire's burning low against the darkening sky
Everyone I used to need
Telling me what I can do with my dreams
Don't take a man to see
Been long enough for me

There's a new day on the southern skies
Don't turn away cause a fire's on the rise
Slowly burning up the ones we left behind
Don't tell me we lost the fight
We'll never be alright

Everyone I used to need
Telling me what I can do with my dreams
Don't take a man to see
Been long enough for me

There's a new day on the southern sky
Don't turn away cause their fire in your eyes
Slowly burning up the ones we left behind
Don't tell me we lost the fight
Can't you see it burning bright?
Standing in the sun's sweet light
We'll never be all right

Lyrics by Kyle Tissue and Electric Daylight

Visit Electric Daylight page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.