

Eric Matthews

"Becomes Dark Blue"

Visit "Becomes Dark Blue" on MotoLyrics.com

Reasons I have, stop me so true Crossing that line again, weakness leaves little to prove Heartbreak, it seems so big, becomes dark blue It's so hard to take, no sweat I'm sure there's someone new

Simple values never lie, a love for reason rarely climbs Meet and tell all you despise, no one's naked scaled eyes
Scaled eyes, eyes

Systems fade, they get replaced by the ones we hate
It seems wrong we wait, for days in comfort way too late

I can't complain my time in rhyme
I know it's borrowed graves in chime Lean to sorrow it's time we find
Some golden free time in the sky, sky, sky

Bibles and guides driving me to crossing that road again
Watching and winding so screwed

Someone like you must know the feelings I've named,
I've named
Every time I look in her eye, I need to reach out and hold you
You, you, you

Visit Eric Matthews page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.