Struck with discontent, but I could not abandon this Cause I am sure I've learned my lesson, from the anger, to the loneliness, the bliss
A sudden change results in apathy
I couldn't let me fall apart Because with time comes understanding, with understanding come a change of heart

I swear your running cause you've lost hope
I swear your running cause you've lost hope
I swear your running cause you've lost hope
It's true, it's true

Pack your bags and leave Lose all respect for where you're from
I can't rely on the divine in the blueprints
If you return it's cause you realized you're wrong
The stigma is there's a disadvantages of the smallest in the greatest machine
If nothing else rely on sounds of the lighthouse, cause it brings you back to the sea

I swear your running cause you've lost hope
I swear your running cause you've lost hope
I swear your running cause you've lost hope
It's true, it's true

Just anchor and hope
Have faith in your home

You'll find redemption in your home
You're always looking for more
The chance to open the doors is here
Be patient
Know that I'm sure it's coming

I swear your running cause you've lost hope
I swear your running cause you've lost hope
I swear your running cause you've lost hope
It's true, it's true

Just anchor and hope

Have faith in your home
