So go - go and waste your time away with hers instead of mine
and I assure you: I'll be fine and birds will sing and sun will shine and really, all it takes is time so play our song and drink our wine and I'll be what you left behind but I am fine! I am fine.

You were never one for thoughtfulness or compliments.
You were never big on holding my hand.
Your love was a tough love and me, your favorite soldier, rewarded, once your wrath incurred if I could still stand.

Well, what's this I see?
Perhaps a shift in gear or maybe in interest.
Have I not catered to your every fucking need?
It seems that she is eager and less tired than I so here I sit on the sidelines dropping to my knees...

So go - go and waste your time away with hers
instead of mine,
and I assure you: I'll be fine
and birds will sing and sun will shine
and really, all it takes is time
but I am fine! I am fine.

You knew well
I would not arrive unless you'd take me with you (I could never make a decent entrance on my own).
I sat and waited to be rescued and you knew well and still decided to leave me all alone...

So go - go and waste your time away with hers

instead of mine,
and I assure you: I'll be fine
and birds will sing and sun will shine
and really, all it takes is time
but I am fine! I am fine.

Well, I've got my bottle and I've got my pride.
I'll find me a place to go and hide
because tonight you are not mine.
I've got my bottle and some time to kill just waiting for this glass to fill and wondering if I am still your love soldier.

Oh, so go - go and waste your time away with hers
instead of mine,
and I assure you: I'll be fine
and birds will sing and sun will shine
and really, all it takes is time
but I am fine! I am fine.
