I wish I could tell you that it's gonna be okay
it's just that i've got nothing today
You're not alone when you tell me it's not fair
Just remember that somebody cares

I know you're not the perfect girl
I still don't see what that means to me
You can tell your friends and all the people that you see
That you're still the perfect girl for me

Your ups didn't last that long before they came back down
The best I can do is be around
And you're not alone when you tell me love's a lie
But just remember that you're still alive

I know you're not the perfect girl
I still don't see what that means to me
You can tell your friends and all the people that you see
That you're still the perfect girl for me

And all the pressure that's been building up
From all the years of overload
Your heart's been broken one too many times before
I'm begging you to try once more

I know you're not the perfect girl
I still don't see what that means to me
You can tell your friends and all the people that you see
That you're still the perfect girl for me
