"Summertime"

When we roam
Faded rumors that outlast the century
Crazy heroes all painted in glass
Which way to the stars
I'll be home in the landscape of a new century Crazy millions have all long since passed their way to the stars
Summertime
Lift back the veil that hides you and me
I can run bearing rumors all traced in the past
Painted mirrors all aging with cracks
Which way and how far
I will try to reach the landscape of where you begin
Not the reflection of what I pretend
Summertime
Lift back the veil that hides you and me
Summertime
Lift back the veil that hides you from me
To own opinion
What do you want it to be
So I'll carry on
Faded rumors that outlive their destiny Crazy millions have all long since passed in way to the stars
When it shines in the summertime
Lift back the veil that hides you and me
Some other time
Lift back the veil that hides you from me
